Armed with modern weapons and equipment the organization of forces is one of the ongoing military reforms in our country essence. From the first days of independence, the political situation around Uzbekistan is very difficult properly assessed and the Republic's defense capability and security the necessary measures to ensure timely development and implementation increased. In our country on the basis of the study of national and world experience a new concept of defense doctrine has been developed. Our country the policy is based on the troops of the Ministry of Defense, Border and Internal Troops. Gradually, decisions on radical reform were developed and adopted was made. The defense policy of the Republic is as follows determined according to the principles:

- not to use military force against another state, to prevent aggression take and repel it;
- Collective security in accordance with international law participation in systems;
- not to participate in military-political blocs;
- Modern wars and armed conflicts of military construction to achieve similarity to the property;
- production of nuclear and other weapons of mass destruction,
- refusal to process, receive, store, distribute and place;
- The economy, the population, the externalities of the Armed Forces to the region always ready to repel aggression;
- adequate defense;
- Ensuring that military service is an honorable duty.

Human interest, stability in gradual reforms relied on the principles of ensuring the conditions. Military in our country the next tasks of the ongoing reforms in the construction sector was determined. In this regard, attention was paid to the following:

- raising the prestige of military service, the status of the Defender of the Fatherland;
- Establishment of the army on a contract basis based on the experience of advanced countries;
- reduction of conscription from 18 to 12 months;
- preparation of the reserve of military servicemen;
- a system of summons in which no violations are allowed and establishing a mechanism. To our military personnel and experts by our government the care provided is scientific to their military and professional training as a result of their approach, their prestige increased of particular importance. That's why the military our government, the trust placed in them by our people are required to respond by increasing the effectiveness of their activities. In this regard, they are required to:

they are required to:

- to constantly improve their professional knowledge, ie independently of military construction, military tactics and strategy, military from scientific literature and public publications on management and professional ethics should use;
- in accordance with the Charter, with courtesy in service relations they must perform their military duties and responsibilities. In public places to be able to control personal behavior and demand the same of colleagues necessary;
- every serviceman in a "commander-subordinate" relationship it must be perceived and respected as an individual. This is just a commander (boss), but also demonstrates the positive qualities of a leader as a mature person reaches;
- with personal experiences in the media of the republic sharing, sharing experiences, young servicemen discuss issues such as training, managing military team expedient.
