Annotation: Large-scale reforms in the socio-economic life of our country process are underway. That's the way it is in the education system especially noticeable. After all, the future of our independent country in many ways it depends on the knowledge and potential of our youth. Of course, we are the deeper we educate them, the more hope we have for the future so big. As our first President IA Karimov said, each generation is unique the history and prestige of his country, his childhood love and faith, builds with devotion and creativity, perseverance and courage. These words come from great goals, and so are we need to set ourselves priorities.

Key words: Preliminary training, military knowledge, patriotic education, terrorism and separatism, Armed Forces.

"Pre-Call Preparation for Youth" Call to Age and Call to serve in the Armed Forces of the Republic of Uzbekistan as part of training, general and secondary special, vocational education is a compulsory subject for institutions. Preliminary, training for young people is growing and is an integral part of the upbringing of the emerging younger generation. He is a high-spirited student. formation of political and moral qualities, behavior, service in the Armed Forces the necessary physical and practical training for the defense of the country to fulfill the sacred duty to protect the Motherland and the Commonwealth of Other States pedagogical influence on mental, will, mental and physical development in order to fulfill is an organizational goal-oriented and continuous process. It is only up to the call to prepare young people in every way to defend the homeland not limited to initial training.

Education is a public affair is the responsibility of the entire teaching staff of the institution. Students are ideologically, politically, spiritually and physically able to defend the Motherland the whole system of educational work of the educational institution and, above all, the existing education process. That's why every teacher is internationally integrated with the material being studied and the domestic policy of the state, the combat power of the armed forces, and the country's defense capability skillfully and clearly explain the issues of strengthening their historical to show importance, to inspire a love for the army, the military, and the military profession. It is necessary to form the necessary moral and fighting qualities for the defender of the homeland should mention elements of military knowledge wherever possible. The system of lessons in general education is an extracurricular educational activity. Forms students' worldviews in close connection with the analysis of social phenomena combines a classic approach to making and evaluating, deep and conscious of one's homeland love, a solid foundation, to reliably protect it from aggressive forces establishes constant preparation.

What is the process? First, these students were important for the future Defender of the Fatherland the whole upbringing of the educational institution, which is the basis for the formation of spiritual and political qualities system. The crucial task here is the community of students armed with knowledge of the laws of development, hatred for the enemies of our Motherland history, sociology, and literature. Teenager's Physical education classes play a key role in preparing for military service. In a number of educational institutions to prepare students to pass the standards a general methodology consisting of a military leader and physical education teacher's commissions were formed. High school (class) students due to such activities as appropriate achieving high results in military-practical sports. He has a great knowledge of patriotic education of students, especially in preparing young people for the future conscription capacity. Students in elementary military education in pre-service training worldview, a deep respect for the army and the difficult military service, which serves as a basis for training, mastering modern weapons and equipment practical skills and competencies will be implemented.

Many of the topics in the curriculum teach students about the enemies of the homeland sources of heroism and dedication of the people of Uzbekistan in armed defense to explain to them the pride and support of the courage of the older generations, an opportunity for military leaders and pre-service teachers to cultivate the qualities of striving to be like them will give.

Interdisciplinary links include patriotic education and basic military training lays the groundwork for improvement. It is a pedagogical thing in many educational institutions confirmed by the experience of the teams.

Students are ready to defend the Motherland; it is not just education in the process, but also in various forms of extracurricular activities. In this to improve the content, form and methods of patriotic education of students, constant attention is required. Infinite devotion and love for the Motherland and its Armed Forces in his spirit, to be ready to perform his military duty flawlessly, to defend the Great Motherland personal responsibility in the performance of honorable duties, as well as patriotism in them .

Upbringing is one of the most important responsibilities of every teacher in an educational institution. There may be a 2-3 hour session on some of the topics in the program. This is in other cases at the expense of other disciplines according to the distribution of the director of the educational institution, and then 1-2 additional hours will be used provided they are replenished.

She is studying for a pre-service military education pre-service military education is special for students are the main subject of preparation. Pre-service military training methodology is subject to state certification. By special training methodological knowledge and skills students in 2nd and 4th year of military service during their internship as head of education.

The emphasis in teaching special subjects is on the military. Pedagogical training, pre-service military education to acquire practical skills for the training.

The current situation is the military training of young people and requires special attention to military-patriotic education is doing. Because the development of our country is, its future security is the responsibility of today's youth. That's why it's working with this category of young people, their education and pre-service youth training.

Today, the best inventions of science are fast in the military field in the context of its application and high level of development, The importance of preparing young people for the defense of the Motherland is self-evident is growing. There is a lot of international terrorism and separatism escalation of hostilities, the elimination of the threat of global war and local wars. The emergence is new to the mental, physical and special training of the soldier demands. Be able to behave in a variety of situations and be able to quickly assess the situation and make the right decision to be able to adapt their actions to the actions of the division requires. New technical means of conducting combat operations is radically changing its features and styles. This is the current situation in combat vehicles, tanks, aircraft steering wheels, anti-aircraft missiles military and special training in complexes means there must be servants.

Primary education and student youth before the call the process of military patriotic education is a multifaceted and systematic process. It is about all aspects of youth (moral, ideological, physical and military-technical) educational processes finds content.

Preparing students for the Armed Forces of the Republic along with other general education subjects in the system, Initial preparation for conscription classes also have their place. Initial preparation for conscription and military patriotism parenting is an interconnected, integrated concept. All conscripts related to military service of conscripts in the formation of skills, both of them are equally important. All-round (socio-political, economic, spiritual) of our country armed forces in the development and strengthening of the borders of the Republic

The role of our forces is very important. Because peace and stability in our country, ensuring its development is a tool. So tomorrow the defenders of the homeland are at a high level military technical, physical and ideological training of the Armed Forces Every educator, every leader is determined to determine the future should be kept in mind. Military training of students is currently underway is one of the most important issues to be addressed.

It makes sense to focus young people on basic military training is the best way. Because what kind of person they are tomorrow, or to become professionals, to what extent the educational process we are carrying out today is organized and conducted depends on.

The army is one of the mechanisms of the state, of destiny, internal stability, place and role in the present defines. The first President of the Republic of Uzbekistan LA Karimov addressed the Oliy Majlis as noted in his speech at the first session; the Armed Forces are a state ensures territorial integrity and the peaceful life of its citizens. In the context of military reforms, the Armed Forces are new quality structural changes have been made in our army.

The military doctrine is the direction of defense, its development is qualitative, and intellectual focused on shaping priorities.

In this regard, today every soldier of our Motherland has a clear task, a high sense of patriotism, a conscientiousness of his military duty and personal responsibility. High in combat readiness keep level, improve combat skills, discipline and strengthening discipline is the country's defense power of every soldier share in the supply.

High in front of the Armed Forces of the Republic of Uzbekistan and healthy, physically fit and resilient, mentally responsible formed, with high morale-fighting qualities, Homeland Defense only a person who is ready to fulfill his patriotic and civic duty can do. The physical, mental and spiritual condition of a soldier in the army many in the ability to effectively apply their qualities in the process of military service pre-service and pre-service age adolescents depends on the effectiveness of the league.

The main directions of pre-conscription training the growing generation is physically, spiritually, morally, patriotic and in the spirit of state defense and readiness for work aimed at.

The main tasks of preparing young people before the call basic military knowledge, physical training, homeland study of military history, symbols, warrior and patriotic citizen covers the formation.

Interdisciplinary connection - patriotic education and primary education lays the groundwork for improved preparation. That's a lot confirmed by the experience of the teaching staff of educational institutions. Students' readiness and aspiration to defend the Motherland in the learning process, but also in various forms of extracurricular activities.

It is very important that it continues. In this case, the patriotic education of students constant attention to the improvement of content, form and style necessary. Infinite devotion and love for the Motherland and its Armed Forces in spirit, ready to perform military duty flawlessly, the Great Personal in carrying out such an honorable duty as defending the homeland responsibilities, as well as cultivating patriotism in them - everyone is one of the most important responsibilities of a teacher in an educational institution.

The main content of these decisions is the conscription of young people training and pre-service youth training functions such as increasing efficiency. The above-mentioned decisions and the conscription of young people due to some problems in the preparation, we have mentioned above. We would like to share some ideas and recommendations. We hope that the youth training and military before the call education, if carried out based on patriotic education to help organize the process properly and effectively and prepares young people for military service and their military an opportunity to raise patriotic education to a higher level creates.
