Resume : This article examines the role and place of the English language in the modern world in the era of globalization. It is shown that the English language plays a huge role in the world community. analyzes forecasts concerning the further development of global English.

Key words : English, modern world, international communication, networking.

The importance of the English language in the modern world can hardly be overestimated. After all, one cannot but reckon with the choice of more than 1 billion people who use it. And if for half of them he is native, then about 600 million chose him as a foreign one. Of course, the range of spread of the English language in the modern world is so great that this language cannot be identical in different areas. Despite its various variants and the presence of specific features for each nationality, English remains the most popular language in our world.

Thanks to English, ubiquitous international communication, establishing contacts, resolving conflict situations, and just communication is possible. it is worth remembering, of course, that international English is, nevertheless, not the language of native speakers, and many of those who use it in their language practice have never been to an English-speaking country. about 90 countries around the world have adopted English as the second state, in many countries it is mandatory to study it, and when there is an alternative choice, for example, between English and German, 85% choose English.

International life takes place under the sign of the English language. it is the official working language of the United Nations. Business negotiations, summits, conferences, congresses - everything takes place in English. global cultural, scientific life is possible only thanks to the English language, as a kind of channel through which the exchange of experience, information and achievements is possible. Olympic Games - and they chose the official language - English. once knowledge of English was a sign of intelligence, an element of luxury. today this is the first necessity, no matter what goals you have in front of you: free orientation in the Internet space or career growth, which, by the way, is virtually impossible today without knowledge of the English language.

The media are an important part of modern public life. According to the Britannica Encyclopedia, 57% of the world's newspapers are published in countries where English has a special status. In the list of influential world publications, the first five lines are occupied by English-language newspapers. If we talk about specialized editions, then here the position of the English language is even stronger. Most of the internationally recognized academic journals are published in English.

The role of English in the global Internet cannot be overemphasized. According to statistics, 75% of world mail is written in English, about 80% of information (both private and public), stored on electronic media, recorded in English.

Although more than 1,000 languages are currently spoken on the web, English is likely to grow in influence as it plays an important role in software.

The role of a foreign language in the modern world is really great. At the same time, English is not the language that other languages of the world are trying to replace - it is only an effective complement. Taking into account the fact that the world is constantly improving, and in all directions (technology, business, IT-industry and others), the English language has become a mandatory "attribute" for every specialist in his industry.

It should be said that a language can be learned just like that for oneself for the purpose of self-development and self-improvement. We live, first of all, for ourselves, which means that we decide for ourselves how it will be better for us. It will be much more pleasant for any person to talk about something with a foreigner himself than to do it through an interpreter. After all, it will be a tremendous experience in learning a foreign language.

In the world of high technologies, one cannot fail to notice the trend of development and creation of various inventions and programs. Most of them are based on foreign software and settings. Be it a laptop, tablet, phone, printer or any program - all of them are originally a foreign product, even having a foreign manual for use, mostly in English. Therefore, every person who wants to be fluent in technology should know English.

Researchers have no doubt that English will retain its dominant position in the world in the near future .

The situation with the English language in the 21st century is truly unique. Never before has any language gained such distribution in such a short time.

The English language today is an opportunity to connect with the world information flow, an opportunity to become an equal part of the cultural world community.
