

THE SOCIAL PSYCHOLOGICAL ROLE OF TRADITION IN SHAPING ADOLESCENT SPIRITUALITY

Baxronova Mavluda O'tkir Qizi
Master Of Bukhara State University

Annotation: The article focuses on scientific views on the role and importance of national values in the formation of adolescent personality and the role of values in personal development.

Keywords: idea, universal, political, legal

Today in our country systematic legal, economic, spiritual-enlightenment and ideological-ideological measures aimed at more fully ensuring the interests of young people, serving to ensure their place in society is being done.

It is known that every nation, every people builds its way of life, its future on the basis of the historical experience of its ancestors, no nation can live and develop freely on the basis of foreign patterns and patterns.

There is no such thing as a value in the universe, a universal value, everything has a name, a term. "Universal value" is a philosophical and axiological concept used to express the social value of things, events, activities, etc., which are the most valuable and socially important for society and the human race, and not their names or names.

To understand the meaning of the category of universal values, we must first analyze the meaning of the term "universal". This notion implies that the basic aspects of society, various social qualities, characteristics, etc., have a universal character. The concept of "universal values" refers to the values of the whole society, which reflect the existence, past, present and future of mankind, the main directions of life, rules, requirements and procedures, the most ancient hopes and ideals of the people. represents common forms.

Values in terms of their content, significance, characteristics:

- 1) material;
- 2) spiritual;
- 3) divided into socio-political values.

They exist in national and universal forms of life, and material values meet the material needs of the people. Their level of development depends on the material well-being of the members of society, first of all, on the level of development of the material wealth of the society, the level of development of the productive forces, as well as the socio-political characteristics of the social production method.

Another feature of values is the socio-political system of society and its political-legal, ideological-theoretical views.

When it comes to the socio-political values of society, the struggle for the realization of the social ideal of society: the struggle for social justice, peace, freedom, liberty, patriotism, national and universal independence is considered the highest value of man and human society.

Values are directly divided into national and universal values. National values are distinguished by the language, culture, national identity of each nation, the specific national characteristics that differentiate the customs and traditions of the people in their life and family relations. The Uzbek people have their own rich language, music and singing, architecture, folk arts, family ceremonies - cradle weddings, abortions, bridesmaids, as well as the rich scientific heritage of our great thinkers. , has immortal values such as creative heritage.

Universal values include traditions, customs, rituals, ceremonies and rituals of universal value related to peace, labor, science, literature, art, culture and so on.

Nowadays, the use of spiritual values remains relevant, as spiritual and enlightenment education is a priority in the development of society.

National and universal values affect the spiritual formation of a preschool child only if it becomes a habit, a necessity in his daily life.

Effective ways to form national and universal values include children's activities, family members, educator activities, educator-child relationships, relationships between children and peers, and the content of their activities.

In conclusion, educating young people on the basis of universal and national values is one of the most pressing issues today. Because in these dangerous times, in the media, we, the Timurid generation, are also threatened. Many of our young people sometimes forget their national values, identity and universal old age. In this case, we must all be vigilant, pay attention to the education of young people, instill in them the universal and national values.

References:

1. Abu Nasr Farooqi. A city of noble people. - T: Meros, 1993, - 223 p.
2. Otamurodova S and others. Fundamentals of Spirituality. - T: People's Heritage, 2002, - 211 p.
3. Jabborov I, Jabborov S. Enlightenment and individual freedom - factors of social development. // Social Thought - Human Rights, 2002, No. 4, pp. 167–171.